

TOP TIPS WHEN USING A BIG4 BBQ

1. Placing baking paper or a non-stick barbecue mat on a grill makes for a less-mess cook up.
2. Is there a queue behind you? Let them know how long your cooking is likely to take - they'll appreciate the heads up.
3. Room on the barbie to spare? Then why not share? You never know, you could score a free snag.
4. Strike up a convo with fellow cooks and share your camp-cooking secrets - have fun in there!
5. A clean camp kitchen is a happy camp kitchen, so make sure to wipe down the bench space for the next cook.
6. Remember to take your rubbish with you. No one likes to clean up someone else's mess!
7. A mixture of water, vinegar, and lemon juice poured on the barbecue directly after use helps to 'boil' off the marinade, fat, and oil.
8. If fellow guests are 'sauce-less' then offer to share yours - it's a great icebreaker.
9. Last in line? Don't forget to turn off the barbie so you can all sleep safe and sound.
